

exposure...

to what you want

to real work

We believe the best way to develop your raw talent is to expose you to the rigours and pressures of actually practising law.

to real clients

You'll attend client meetings, make and take calls and play an important part in developing the firm's client relationships.

to a unique culture

Supportive, informal and self-confident, Macfarlanes is an environment that recognises and celebrates individuality.

to quality training

Real work, client contact and first-class education – come qualification, you will know what it's like to be a lawyer.
